

> What is this?

The Subject Alternate Name header on an SSL certificate is a header which contains information about the domain names the certificate is valid for. Some services are smart enough to use a separate SSL certificate for each domain they operate. A large amount, however, reuse certificates, adding the names of other domains to the SAN field of the certificate. This tool allows you to query the SAN data for a given domain, and it also performs a recursive search, which can uncover additional domains in some cases.
